Special Days in December - from pflag.org/blog/special-days-december

December 24: Christmas Eve/Hanukkah Begins (continues for eight days)

December 25: Christmas Day

It's a rare occurrence for these two holidays to fall on the same night, but that they do this year. For some LGBTQ people, the thought of attending church can be stressful. Thankfully, finding open and affirming churches has become easier, as has finding allies in a number of Judeo-Christian traditions. Within the Jewish community, there are many temples that are open and affirming, with Reform Jews even having offered a resolution on the rights of transgender and gender-expansive people.

Here are some faith resources from PFLAG National to help:

- PFLAG National Faith FAQ
- be not afraid...help is on the way: straight for equality in faith communities
- Jewish Faith Resources
- Christian Faith Resources

PFLAGPole Goes Digital - PFLAG Voice, November 30, 2016

As you likely recall, at the end of 2015, we moved to a tri-annual PFLAGPole, giving us an opportunity to share news from PFLAG National three times a year. Now, with 2017 almost upon us, it's time for another update: PFLAGPole is going digital. That's right: Beginning with the Winter 2017 issue, PFLAGPole will be delivered digitally, living on pflag.org, the online hub of all things PFLAG.

Congress Passes Annual Defense Bill Without Anti-LGBTQ Amendment

On December 8th HRC issued the following statement after the U.S House of Representatives and U.S. Senate passed the FY 2017 National Defense Authorization Act (NDAA). The final version of the legislation did not include a House-passed provision that would have dramatically expanded religious discrimination with taxpayer funds and undermined President Obama's executive order prohibiting LGBTQ discrimination in federal contracting. The provision -- proposed by Representative Steve Russell (R-OK) under the guise of so-called "religious liberty" -- had been previously included in the House version of the bill, but not in the Senate version. Conferees did not include it in the conference report.
